WE'RE INVESTING IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD.

MAIN REPLACEMENT PROJECT TO START SOON

At Missouri American Water, we're committed to providing our customers with safe, reliable water service. This requires investing in our treatment and distribution systems, and one of these projects is about to take place near you. The project involves replacing aging water main, as well as utility-owned service lines and fire hydrants along the pipeline route (see reverse for more information about service lines).

PROJECT OVERVIEW AND WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT

- Install, disinfect, test and place new main into service. While we interconnect the new main to the distribution system, customers may experience a temporary service interruption. Customers may also experience a slight discoloration of water. If this happens, run the water until it is clear.
- Replace utility-owned service lines and transfer customers to the new main. Once the new water main is installed, we will return at a later time to connect the customer service lines to the new water main after testing is completed. This may involve replacing utility-owned service lines. If we're replacing the utility-owned service line at your property, typically there is a 30- to 60-minute interruption of service while the contractor connects the new service line. We'll attempt to notify customers 24 hours in advance. We'll also notify you on the day the service line is replaced with instructions on how to flush your household plumbing prior to using water. It is important that you read and follow these instructions. If you're not home, we'll leave the instructions at your front door.
- Perform final paving and any restoration of concrete, driveway, grass and landscaping.

Our crews will work as quickly as possible to shorten the length of these temporary inconveniences. We appreciate your patience and understanding during this project.

ABOUT THE PROJECT

Investment:	Estimated at $400,000
What:	Upsizing and replacing water mains dating back to the early 1900s.
Where:	On North College 700 feet of 2-inch water main will be replaced with 8-inch water main. On Gay Street, 1400 feet of 4-inch water main will be replaced with 12-inch water main. Project improves both service reliability and fire protection.
When:	Weather permitting, our contractor, J.C. Myers will begin work on or about the week of June 3 and will be completed by the end of September.
Work Hours:	8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Work on weekends and evenings as needed to maintain project schedule.
Project Contact:	David Fiedler, Operations Manager - 660-747-3192 x 5

TRAFFIC FLOW AND ACCESSIBILITY

Sections of street where construction is taking place may be closed during work hours. All traffic control will be coordinated with local road authorities. Motorists should use caution, obey traffic signs and follow detour routes when driving in the area.

NOISE

As with any construction project, some noise will be unavoidable with this project. We apologize for any inconvenience and appreciate your understanding and cooperation.

SITE MAINTENANCE

The project site will be maintained and cleaned each day before Missouri American Water construction crews/contractors have completed work.

HOW SHOULD WE REACH YOU IN AN EMERGENCY?

Western Missouri Medical Center Advanced Wound Center Recognized With National President's Circle Award For Excellence

Warrensburg, MO (May 28, 2019)—The Western Missouri Medical Center Advanced Wound Center physicians, leaders, and clinicians gathered today to celebrate the President's Circle award which was given to the Advanced Wound Center in recognition of a Robert A. Warriner III, M.D., Center of Excellence with outstanding performance. The Center was awarded this prestigious honor for the 3rd year in a row by Healogics, the nation's largest provider of advanced wound care services. Experienced Education Leader from ATU Appointed UCM's New Provost, VP for Academic Affairs

WARRENSBURG, MO (May 16, 2019) – An experienced and collaborative leader and strategic thinker from Russellville, Arkansas, Phillip B. Bridgmon, Ph.D., has been selected to serve as provost and vice president for Academic Affairs at the University of Central Missouri. Bridgmon's appointment was announced today by UCM President Roger Best, and is the result of a nationwide search that was conducted throughout the spring 2019 semester. The new academic leader begins his duties July 15.

"Dr. Bridgmon has a thorough understanding of and incredible insight into strategies necessary to overcome challenges and capitalize on opportunities for higher education and UCM specifically," Best said. "His collaborative approach and focus on shared governance are qualities I value and that are consistent with UCM's culture, and I have great confidence in his capacity to help us fulfill our shared vision. We look forward to Dr. Bridgmon and his family joining UCM and the Warrensburg community."

The provost and vice president for Academic Affairs is a president's cabinet-level position responsible for personnel, shared vision, support and development of a high-quality learning environment that encompasses the entire academic experience. In addition to overseeing faculty and staff who coordinate, deliver and teach academic courses, the provost is charged with fostering creative alliances among campus and community members to develop educational programs and initiatives, assisting the four academic deans and school chairs in promoting faculty and program development, and providing leadership for strategic enrollment planning.

"UCM is a well-respected university and being able to join such a distinguished academic community is truly humbling. During my campus visit, UCM's deep commitments to fostering opportunity for students, serving the region, and considering how best to advance the mission and vision were confirmed. These commitments, along with encouraging and supporting my colleagues in their work, are also my leadership priorities," Bridgmon said.

"My family and I look forward to moving to Warrensburg this summer and joining in service to our new community and colleagues."

Bridgmon's background in higher education over the past 18 years includes serving as college professor, graduate program coordinator, department chair, dean, and as an associate and interim vice president for Academic Affairs. His current position as interim vice president for Academic Affairs at Arkansas Tech University began in spring of 2018. He has served as ATU's associate vice president for Academic Affairs and as accreditation liaison officer to the Higher Learning Commission since 2017. He also has served as an accreditation peer reviewer for the Higher Learning Commission and Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges.

In his role as interim vice president at ATU, Bridgmon is an education leader at the third largest institution in the state of Arkansas. The university has multiple campuses and achieved a record enrollment of approximately 12,000 students last fall. Bridgmon's duties include providing oversight for a budget of about $50 million while working with numerous direct reports that include deans of seven academic colleges as well as the directors of the Pendegraft Library and Technology Center, Honors Program, Information Systems, Assessment, Registrar, and associate vice presidents for University Initiatives and Student Success. He also serves as the liaison to the Arkansas Department of Higher Education.

Bridgmon's previous leadership appointments include serving as dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Northeastern State (Oklahoma) University, 2012-2017 and liaison to the Cherokee Nation for Cherokee Language Education and Culture Programs; founding chairperson for what is today the Department of Politics, Justice, and Law at the University of North Alabama, 2007-2012; and graduate program coordinator, 2004-2007 and 2009-2011.

The new provost has many years of teaching experience in a college classroom. While working for the University of North Alabama from 2004-2012, he climbed the academic ranks from assistant professor to professor, having taught both criminal justice and political science courses. He also joined Northeastern State University as a tenured professor, and has served as a tenured professor of political science at ATU since he began work on that campus. Early in his career he served as a visiting instructor at Grand Valley State University and as an assistant professor at James Madison University.

Bridgmon earned a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of North Alabama, and a master's degree in criminal justice and a Ph.D. in political science from the University of Alabama.

He has co-authored three books on political science-related topics, and has contributed numerous articles and research papers to professional journals and made presentations on his research at conferences across the United States. His commitment to professional development has included summer fellowships at the University of Michigan, Harvard, and Vanderbilt University.

Call for Annual Awards Nominations

The Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominees for five upcoming awards that celebrate outstanding Chamber businesses, Chamber members, and volunteers making a difference in our community.

Award winners will be announced at the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce Annual Social event on July 18, 2019. Businesses and individuals can apply for these awards or may be nominated. A committee of volunteer judges will determine the winners. All nominees meeting the criteria will be recognized at the event and are therefore highly encouraged to be present at the Annual Social.

Tip: Should you take that call?

Dear Shepa Learning - can you help me out when I get into this situation?

"I am waiting for a friend/business associate/client to show up for an appointment, and my phone rings. It's someone I have been trying to speak to and who is hard to reach. I take the call and then my appointment shows up!"

How does one handle this situation gracefully? It's awkward cutting the conversation short, and it's uncomfortable with the person I'm meeting standing right next to me.

Is taking the call and explaining that I might have only a minute to talk a good way to handle it? That could appear rude to the caller ... as in "I'm such a busy person, hardly have time for you..." Or is it better to let the call go through to voice mail?"

Answer: Make a snap decision on how hard it will be to reconnect with the caller. If you must pick up, explain the situation and only use the call to reschedule, pick a time then and there. But remember, taking that call puts you in two awkward positions—finding a way to shut down the telephone conversation gracefully and having your appointment cool their heels while you do this.

Hot summer networking tip.

Don't be afraid to network with friends and family.

One of Dee Trethewey's tips from her article, Top Tips On How To Network As An Introvert got us thinking about upcoming summer networking opportunities. This was the tip: "Reach Out To Your Existing Network. This could include your family or friends. Or maybe even friends of your friends." Her suggestion ties in with our tip from last week about not being afraid to talk 'business' when you are in day-to-day social situations such as chatting with another parent at the schoolyard.

Summer is the time for barbeques and other social get-togethers with friends and family. After the small talk about the mosquitoes or what's grilling on the 'barbie' consider having a casual conversation about something that makes up 40 or 60 hours of your respective weeks--your job!

Friends and relatives all have networks and you may be pleasantly surprised by the advice and contacts offered up by these first-degree connections. During these conversations be a Positive Networker and think about what you can do for them. Can you be a connector and introduce them to someone? Can you share information or knowledge? Here are five easy things you can do for others, including your friends and relatives.

Some interview questions may seem like gimmies, but they're actually not. For instance, you might think "tell me about yourself" will be a cinch to answer, but there is a right and wrong way to approach it. Same with, "Where do you see yourself in 10 years?" Knowing which financial and personal paperwork to keep or toss is very important. Here's a suggested timeline for keeping/shredding documents.

Documents which should be kept indefinitely—in a secure location:

- Birth/death certificates and Social Security cards
- Marriage Licenses and Divorce Decrees
- Pension plan documents
- Copies of wills, trusts, health care proxies/living wills and powers of attorney (attorney/executor should have copies)
- Military discharge papers
- Copies of burial deeds and plots
- Safe-deposit box inventory
- Copies of all tax returns

Suggested timeline for retaining documents:

- Supporting documents for tax return (7 years) - This is the recommended minimum period of time to retain. Remember, tax return copies should remain on file forever.
- Investment records and statements (7 years) - These are needed for tax filing. Keep for at least 3 years. You may want to keep for the same amount of time as the supporting documents for tax returns.
- Credit card statements (45 days-7 years) - Keep up to seven years if it may be used for taxes, as proof of purchase or for insurance.
- Bank statements (1-3+ years) - Keep for 3 years or longer if you apply for Medicaid, or it pertains to taxes, a business expense, home improvement, mortgage payment or major purchase.
- Medical and dental records (1-5 years) - Keep for at least one year, maybe up to five to be safe. Retain information about prescriptions, specific medical histories, health insurance information and contact information for your physician.
- Utility and phone bills (1 month-1 year) - Shred them after you have paid them, unless they contain tax-deductible expenses—keep them for a year if they can be used for business deductions.
- Insurance policies (until closed) - Keep as long as the policies remain in force.
- Mortgages and other home documents (ownership + 6 years) - Mortgages, deeds and home improvement documents should be kept on file for the length of ownership, plus six years after selling the home.
- Appliance manuals and warranties (if owned) - Keep on file for the length of ownership.

- Vehicle titles and loan documents (if owned) - Keep on file for the length of ownership.
 - Pay stubs (until end of year) - There is not a requirement for keeping pay stubs. Keep up to three months if you are applying for a loan. You may want to keep them for a year so you can compare against your W-2.
- Be sure to shred any information that has your personal details on it. We hope you found this list helpful and informative. Hope to see you at Shred Fest!

Adobe Removing Older Software And Products Is Upsetting Users

Adobe is facing harsh criticism after they began sending letters out to portions of their user base. The letters inform users of Creative Cloud that older versions of the products they're using have been discontinued and licenses to use those products have been revoked. Users are to stop using them immediately and upgrade to newer versions or they "may be at risk of potential claims of infringement by third-parties."

CLICK HERE to see Adobe's discontinued versions

Unfortunately, this letter and its contents raise serious issues for developers around the world. Once a project has been initiated using a specific version of a product, Developers are highly reluctant to upgrade to a newer version in mid-project, for fear of introducing bugs. In addition to that, there are several older, legacy projects in the wild that are employing older equipment. So, upgrading to the latest version of a given program may not be possible due to hardware compatibility issues.

In days gone by, Adobe took a much different, softer approach, allowing development teams to continue using a discontinued program for a number of years. So far at least, Adobe is sticking to their guns. They intend for everyone to stop using the older versions of their products and insist that they pay to upgrade, or else.

Adobe declined to comment specifically on the matter. However, insiders suspect that the company's hard line about the issue stems from a lawsuit filed by Dolby for unpaid license fees related to the use of their technology in a variety of software Adobe makes. Be that as it may, it has the feel of a massive shakedown and it has even the company's supporters furious.

A new approach to medical plans for small employers

The Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI) and the Missouri Chamber Federation (MCF) have teamed up with The Health Plan (THP) in Missouri to create a health program that can lead to more rate stability and is a smart solution that offers potential savings for groups with 50 or fewer eligible employees.

This self-funded medical offering called the MCF Benefit Plan is a multiple employer welfare arrangement (MEWA). MEWAs enable smaller employers to join together to share in the overall claims risk. By being part of a larger, self-funded pool, employers have financial protection backed by The Health Plan.

In addition to financial protection, this innovative alternative offers:

- Competitive medically underwritten rates
- Fixed, predictable monthly payments
- A variety of plan designs, including 10 PPO and three HSA options
- Access to the HealthLink OAH network and Freedom Network Select
- Coverage for claims run-out / terminal liability coverage

Is your business searching for a cost-saving health coverage option? The Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce is excited to offer a new plan exclusively for our chamber of commerce members. Our new program enables smaller employers to join together—offering potential savings and the ability to share the overall claims risk. For more information, contact our Chamber member agencies circled below.

Purpose

The Greater Warrensburg Area Chamber of Commerce is a community that supports business, values education and empowers leaders.

The Chamber Flash

Space in the Chamber Flash is an included member benefit for Chamber members only. E-mail your print ready ad in JPG format to chamber@warrensburg.org by noon Wednesday for Friday publication.

You must resubmit your flyer each week you would like it published.

The Chamber Flash is compiled and written by Communications Coordinator Amanda Flues.
