Dear Chamber Member,

An outstanding benefit of being a member of the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce is being able to promote your business in our annual publications. This year, we are collaborating with the Daily Star-Journal to create the Warrensburg: Work. Live. Play. publication. With this new concept, we are working toward more story-oriented segments of information from our businesses and organizations to produce a current "Welcome to Warrensburg" resource for those visiting and potentially relocating to our community. This directory is also given to all current and prospective chamber members and is typically a highly requested publication from our community members.

We are proud to be partnering with the Daily Star-Journal to produce this important Chamber publication. Not only is the Daily Star-Journal a valued Warrensburg Chamber member, but they are also leaders in the field of publishing. General Manager / Advertising Director Honi Brown and Multimedia Account Executive Mendy Kenney will be contacting you soon to discuss your advertising in this opportunity.

Your Chamber and the Daily Star-Journal both know the importance of marketing for your business. As a result, your display advertisement will be seen in the printed publication as well as through the online eBook Directory linked to the Chamber's website at www.warrensburg.org.

By choosing to participate, you will be working with the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce in making this valuable marketing piece a success, as well as joining prominent businesses working together to grow and sustain the economic vitality of our community. We encourage you to learn more about this limited, first-reserved marketing opportunity for your business. Act soon!

In the Weeds Navigating Legal Marijuana in the Workplace

Hosted by  Warrensburg
MISSOURI
Chamber of Commerce

Wednesday, September 25th, 7:30 AM - 9 AM
Western Missouri Medical Center Conference Room
403 Burkarth Road, Warrensburg, MO

Now that Missouri joined as the 33rd state to have legalized marijuana in some form, employers must evaluate potential workplace issues and take steps to ensure a productive and safe workforce. Between federal laws, state laws, safety regulations and the current administration's stand on marijuana laws, there is a lot that employers need to know.

The Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce and Fisher Phillips invites you to attend our breakfast meeting that will address:

- Status of Missouri marijuana laws and how those affect your business
- The legal climate of marijuana across the United States
- Answer common employer questions:
  - Can employees consume marijuana at work?
  - Can I drug test applicants and employees?
  - Do I have to let employees work while high?
  - How do medical marijuana laws affect leave laws - FMLA, ADA, workers' compensation?

This program will navigate the legal minefield of legalized marijuana to help identify the best employment practices for your company.

Western Missouri Medical Center will be sponsoring breakfast for attendees.

Love What's Local was created by City of Warrensburg, Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce and Warrensburg Main Street to educate consumers to purchase local goods and services. They have decided this year to add another way to love local with Clean the Burg.

Life-long resident and LWL advocate Carly Joyner commented, "I'm so excited to see organizations working together with the common goal to motivate residents to invest in our community."

This two day event is to encourage community volunteerism and to beautify our town. Residents, families, community groups, businesses, churches and teenagers who need to perform service hours can come up with a projects and implement them on September 6th & 7th.

So grab your rakes, garbage bags, paint brushes, gardening gloves, etc. and help make spread the love for your community. Don't forget to share you photos on social media! #CleanTheBurg

Crest Ridge High School student put leadership in practice at Missouri Chamber education program

JEFFERSON CITY – There's no better way to develop leadership skills than to practice, practice, practice. That is exactly what Crest Ridge High School sophomore Brady Van Wey of Warrensburg did while attending the Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry's Leadership In Practice student forum. Brady was among more than 110 youth selected as future leaders from schools across the state. Held on June 23 to 26 on the Westminster College campus in Fulton, Leadership in Practice is designed to provide young Missourians with the opportunity to learn what it takes to be an effective leader in their schools and communities.

Cohosting the program were the Jenny and Warren Erdman Charitable Fund and the Kansas City Southern Charitable Fund. Warren Erdman, executive vice president of administration and corporate affairs for Kansas City Southern, "At it's core, Leadership In Practice is discovering who you are as a leader." The program is also supported in part by contributions from Doe Run Company, Robinson Construction, Central Bank, among other businesses and community organizations.

All participants were students between their freshman and sophomore years in high school. With help from Missouri business leaders and educators, the students learned firsthand about how to successfully work together as a team and individually as a leader.

The students were challenged to use leadership skills in activities that simulated real-life situations, including Team Building with a low ropes course, a mock Model U.N. session and an Entrepreneurship Challenge. During the Entrepreneurship Challenge, students worked in small groups to develop business plans for a new product or service and pitched their ideas to a "Shark Tank" style panel of Missouri business leaders. At the end of the program participants were encouraged to set goals for themselves for their continued development as leaders in their high schools, community and beyond.

Leadership in Practice is part of a youth leadership educational program created by the Missouri Chamber in 1962. It is funded through scholarships provided by businesses and civic organizations. Brady was nominated to attend by Crest Ridge High School professional staff and the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce. James Frank, Principal, commented, "Brady is an excellent student based upon his competency, work ethic and character." Brady was sponsored to attend the program by the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce and Warrensburg Collision. Suzanne Taylor, Executive Director, Warrensburg Chamber commented, "I am pleased the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce was able to provide a scholarship for Brady so he could participate in the Leadership In Practice program. It is an excellent program that provides an environment for high school students to build confidence, share talents and practice leadership skills. It is exciting to think that these students are our future community leaders!"

Applicants are evaluated on character, scholarship and leadership and must be recommended by a school official, student council sponsor, local chamber of commerce or civic leader. For more information on the Missouri Chamber's Leadership in Practice program, visit mo-chamber.com/lip.

Warrensburg High School student put leadership in practice at Missouri Chamber education program

JEFFERSON CITY – There's no better way to develop leadership skills than to practice, practice, practice. That is exactly what Warrensburg High School sophomore Raegan Horn did while attending the Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry's Leadership In Practice student forum.

Raegan was among more than 110 youth selected as future leaders from schools across the state. Held on June 23 to 26 on the Westminster College campus in Fulton, Leadership in Practice is designed to provide young Missourians with the opportunity to learn what it takes to be an effective leader in their schools and communities.

Cohosting the program were the Jenny and Warren Erdman Charitable Fund and the Kansas City Southern Charitable Fund. Warren Erdman, executive vice president of administration and corporate affairs for Kansas City Southern, "At it's core, Leadership In Practice is discovering who you are as a leader." The program is also supported in part by contributions from Doe Run Company, Robinson Construction, Central Bank, among other businesses and community organizations.

All participants were students between their freshman and sophomore years in high school. With help from Missouri business leaders and educators, the students learned firsthand about how to successfully work together as a team and individually as a leader.

The students were challenged to use leadership skills in activities that simulated real-life situations, including Team Building with a low ropes course, a mock Model U.N. session and an Entrepreneurship Challenge. During the Entrepreneurship Challenge, students worked in small groups to develop business plans for a new product or service and pitched their ideas to a "Shark Tank" style panel of Missouri business leaders. At the end of the program participants were encouraged to set goals for themselves for their continued development as leaders in their high schools, community and beyond.

Leadership in Practice is part of a youth leadership educational program created by the Missouri Chamber in 1962. It is partially funded through sponsorships provided by state businesses and civic organizations. Raegan was selected to attend by Warrensburg High School professional staff and the Warrensburg Area Chamber of Commerce. Raegan was sponsored to attend by the Warrensburg Chamber and Warrensburg Collision. Suzanne Taylor, Executive Director, Warrensburg Chamber commented, "I am pleased the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce was able to provide a scholarship for Raegan so she could participate in the Leadership In Practice program. It is an excellent program that provides an environment for high school students to build confidence, share talents and practice leadership skills. It is exciting to think that these students are our future community leaders!"

Applicants are evaluated on character, scholarship and leadership and must be recommended by a school official, student council sponsor, local chamber of commerce or civic leader. Raegan was sponsored by the Warrensburg Chamber of Commerce, a local, business led organization dedicated to enhancing the greater Warrensburg community. Tip: Are your one-on-ones building your relationship?

Better ways to participate as a manager or direct report.

CEO and co-founder of Front, Mathilde Collin shares her very smart and thoughtful ideas about how she runs one-on-ones. She considers these meetings her most valuable because they boost engagement, “unblock issues and ask and answer questions” and offer a way to discuss issues in private and directly—one-on-one.

Questions are sent to employees beforehand and Collin says, “My two favorite questions to ask direct reports are ‘if you were me, what would you do differently’ and ‘what don’t you like about the product?’” Other discussion topics include:

- How do you feel about your goals for this quarter?
- What are the things you’ve done since you joined you’re the most proud about?
- What’s the split of your time today between X/Y/Z? What would you like to spend more/less time on?
- How could I be a better manager for you?

Collins says these meetings take “a lot of time to prep for and follow through on commitments made in all of these one-on-ones”.

And, if you are the direct report these meetings give you a chance to engage in thoughtful, helpful and candid dialogue. One-on-ones are also one of your more valuable bonding and career-building opportunities.

Here are more one-on-one questions from Mathilde Collin.

Tip: Why talking to yourself is a good thing.

Before walking into a room full of strangers talk positively to yourself.

We’re always looking at ways to help people overcome networking nervosus. We remind them that they aren’t the only ones who feel anxious in networking situations. They are walking into a room full of human beings who feel the same—more than 60%, that’s for sure! We also encourage them to do a little self-talk before entering the room.

Gustavo Razzetti (who writes great blogs for Medium) in an article on self-awareness says talking to oneself is an undervalued skill. He says, “The quality of your inner speech is critical—the more positive your words, the better.”

So, instead of focusing on the negative — you don’t like doing this, are too busy, and it will probably be a waste of time — set yourself up for success by saying:

- I am going to meet some interesting and nice people
- I am going to learn new things
- I am going to make others feel more comfortable by being welcoming, friendly and relaxed

Professor Alain Morin, a PhD in psychology in his article “Self-talk and Self-awareness: On the Nature of the Relation” says that self-talk is “an important psychological activity....that shapes our thoughts, feelings and behaviors.” Start shaping yours before you enter a networking situation.

Developing energizing skills that reveal talents can help you get ahead in the workplace, so follow your curiosity, and look to your hobbies for inspiration.

This is even more important than your degree

When it comes to nailing an interview, your personality may play a larger role than you think. ## A new approach to medical plans for small employers

The Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI) and the Missouri Chamber Federation (MCF) have teamed up with The Health Plan (THP) in Missouri to create a health program that can lead to more rate stability and is a smart solution that offers potential savings for groups with 50 or fewer eligible employees.

This self-funded medical offering called the MCF Benefit Plan is a multiple employer welfare arrangement (MEWA). MEWAs enable smaller employers to join together to share in the overall claims risk. By being part of a larger, self-funded pool, employers have financial protection backed by The Health Plan.

In addition to financial protection, this innovative alternative offers:

- Competitive medically underwritten rates
- Fixed, predictable monthly payments
- A variety of plan designs, including 10 PPO and three HSA options
- Access to the HealthLink OAll network and Freedom Network Select
- Coverage for claims run-out / terminal liability coverage
