Union Pacific's Big Boy No.4014

By Dustin Steinhoff,
dustins@warrensburgstarjournal.com

WARRENSBURG — Community members gathered to see Union Pacific's Big Boy No. 4014, the world's largest steam locomotive in operation, make a stop in Warrensburg on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 31.

The train's arrival in Warrensburg was one of a series of stops the train made on Tuesday as it made its way from Jefferson City to Kansas City.

In May 2019, Big Boy No. 4014 returned to service after a 58-year retirement and a three-year restoration project. In doing so, the train regained the title as the world's largest operating steam locomotive.

Big Boy No. 4014 is now back on the rails in 2021, traveling through Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Illinois, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming.

Local residents crowded the areas around the tracks to get a look at the train as it pulled up to the Amtrak station Tuesday afternoon in downtown Warrensburg.

Warrensburg Mayor Scott Holmberg and Union Pacific Senior Director of Public Affairs Ben Jones stepped off the train once it arrived and addressed the crowd.

Jones let attendees know that they could take a look at the train for about 30 minutes before it had to depart for the next stop in Pleasant Hill. Jones said Big Boy made its first run after returning to service in 2019 to celebrate the anniversary of the completion of the transcontinental railroad.

25 Shades of Green

Introducing Provider Relations Liaison Bethany Holohan

Bethany Holohan began her Provider Relations position at Crossroads Hospice & Palliative Care in St. Louis just days before the global COVID-19 pandemic shut down the country in March, 2020. In a very short time, the self-professed “animated person with a strong personality” is making a big impact at Crossroads.

Like so many of the end-of-life care professionals at Crossroads, Bethany is wholly dedicated to the patients. Even though she hadn't worked in hospice care for seven years, when she joined Crossroads last year, Bethany said, “I worked at a very large and respected hospice in St. Louis for 11 years.”

Because of the Non-Judgmental Care Bethany “likes end-of-life care because for a lot of people, it's the most care and the most love they ever have.” She continued, “I have seen so much gentleness come out of otherwise hard or sad situations. If a patient is compromised, hospice provides appropriate “non-judgmental” care. Bethany holds this philosophy in the highest regard.

The Oaknoll Retirement Center in Iowa City, Iowa is where Bethany got her professional start. She began there “the Monday after graduating” from the University of Iowa with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in American Studies focusing on urban studies and cultural diversity. Bethany excelled at “life enrichment and volunteer management” at Oaknoll. “It was the best place ever!”

Bethany is the type of person who can turn any ho hum moment in to a party because of her ebullient personality and quick thinking. Bethany said she lives her life inspired by Mark Twain's quote, “Kindness is the language which the deaf can hear and the blind can see.” According to Bethany, she has seen firsthand the “impact kindness can make at the end-of-life.” As a Provider Relations professional at Crossroads, she strives to ensure as many people as possible are afforded that opportunity at their end-of-life.

Missouri Veterans Home-Warrensburg

We celebrated the birthday of our oldest veteran, Kenneth Hale, who is 104. He celebrated with an outdoor visit from his family.

He was a B-17 pilot in World War II and served with the 384th Bombardment Group, 8th Air Force, at Grafton Underwood, England. On return from his 32nd mission after bombing the Merseburg Oil Refinery, Hale's plane “Queenie” was forced down northwest of Frankfurt.

After parachuting from the plane, he and his 9-member crew were captured by German soldiers and transferred to Stalag Luft I in Barth near the Baltic Sea. Shortly after, the Germans deserted the compound. Russians soldiers arrived on May 1, 1945, and freed the prisoners.

COVID-19 BUSINESS SUPPORT EMPLOYEE RETENTION CREDIT

ELIGIBILITY FOR BUSINESSES

Did you know that many small businesses can still claim thousands of dollars in 2020 tax relief based on COVID-related shutdowns and disruptions? If your business:

- Has fewer than 100 employees
- Was at least partly closed due to a government order OR your revenue declined significantly in 2020; AND
- You kept your employees on the payroll:

You may be eligible for 2020 employee retention tax credits of up to $5,000 per employee.

What it is

Tax credits for businesses that keep employees on payroll

How it works

For 2020, the Employee Retention Credit (ERC) is a tax credit against certain payroll taxes, including an employer's share of social security taxes for wages paid between March 12, 2020 and December 31, 2020. The tax credit is 50% of the wages paid up to $10,000 per employee, capped at $5,000 per employee.

If the amount of the tax credit for an employer is more than the amount of the employer's share of social security tax owed, the excess is refunded – paid – directly to the employer.

To get started

If your business is eligible for the ERC for 2020 and you have not yet claimed the credit, you can file amended payroll tax forms to claim the credit and receive your tax refund.

For information about claiming these credits, visit <https://www.irs.gov/newsroom/faqs-employee-retention-credit-under-the-cares-act>

Please note that this document is a simplified description of the employee retention credit rules. Business owners should consult with their tax advisors regarding the specifics of their situation.

Overview & Rules

To see whether your business is eligible for the ERC, start by determining whether:

- (1) the business was fully or partially shut down due to a governmental order during any part of 2020, or
- (2) the business's gross receipts in any quarter of 2020 declined 50% or more relative to the same quarter of 2019.

If the answer to either question is YES, and the business had 100 or fewer employees, then any wages paid to any employee while the business was fully or partially shut down or during a quarter that it had a 50% decline in gross receipts may count towards the $10,000 per employee amount.

To make more relief available to businesses like yours, you may be able to claim the ERC even if you received a PPP loan.

Employee Retention in 2021

In addition to claiming tax credits for 2020, small businesses should consider their eligibility for the ERC in 2021. The ERC is now available for all four quarters of 2021, up to $7,000 per quarter. The level of qualifying business disruption has been reduced so that a 20% decline in gross receipts during a single quarter will make a business eligible, for a maximum yearly benefit of $28,000 per employee.

If you keep your employees on the payroll this year, the 2021 ERC is even more generous.

Tip:
Try a “Half-Baked Idea” session with your team.

Tip:
We are all naturals at networking—really!

TIP: Try a “Half-Baked Idea” session with your team.

How do we strengthen our colleagues’ sense of belonging? One way to do that is by incorporating “immensely human interactions (IHIs)” into our workdays. While it’s kind of a grandiose phrase, the idea is solid.

In Reimagining the Office for Immensely Human Interactions, Jeffrey Sanchez-Burks and Maxim Sytch, professors at the University of Michigan, describe IHIs as “moments in which social interactions...are interwoven with empathy, curiosity, and humility. Done right, IHIs help grow and nurture profound ties with coworkers and can help build lost feelings of connection and culture at work.”

Sanchez-Burks and Sytch suggest organizations run “humility huddles” which provide a safe way for colleagues to brainstorm half-baked ideas without the fear of criticism. “The rules are simple: No slides. No presentations. Just share an imperfect idea....in the spirit of learning from others.” We love the concept of a “Half-Baked Idea” session! Tell us if you try one.

TIP: We are all naturals at networking—really!

We get frustrated when we hear these comments. It’s such an old-fashioned, limiting concept of networking. It stops people from networking. They don’t think they are good at it. Well, prepare to be surprised! Here’s what the findings in Ikujiro Nonaka and Hirotaka Takeuchi’s article Strategy as a Way of Life tell us:

“Advances in neuroscience research in recent years have shed light on the biological factors driving humans’ sense of purpose. We now know that the most basic need we are compelled to meet is social connection — it has a stronger motivational pull than even food, water, and shelter.” Wow!

It seems we have an innate need to connect, and we also want to help others. “Neuroscientists have also found that the human brain exhibits a predisposition to seek the common good via egalitarian and altruistic behavior.” This is the definition of a Positive Networker!

Why not switch your mindset to this? “I am naturally good at interpersonal relationships and, like my fellow humans, I have a basic need to make social connections.”

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Warrensburg Star-Journal's Tuesday print edition to return

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (Aug. 24, 2021) – After more than a year as a weekly publication, the Star-Journal is bringing back its Tuesday print edition. The first Tuesday edition will be published Sept. 14, returning the Star-Journal to a twice-weekly publication. "Ever since the Sedalia Democrat took over ownership of the Star-Journal in October, the most frequent question we receive is about additional publication days. Due to the numerous requests and positive community feedback about the paper, we've decided to make the change," Publisher Will Weibert said. "Our whole team is excited to continue our promise of improving the Star-Journal, and bringing back the Tuesday edition is the next step."

The price of a single copy of the Star-Journal will remain $1. However, the monthly subscription rate will increase due to the change in print frequency. The new monthly rate will begin Oct. 1.

Print subscribers also receive full access to warrensburgstarjournal.com and the e-edition, a digital replica of the print edition. To activate this access, visit the website or contact customer service. "Adding another print edition means our newsroom will be able to include more content for our print readers, and advertisers will have another chance to reach the Star-Journal audience," Editor Nicole Cooke said. "We've had some online-only content due to limited print space, but more content will now reach print with the Tuesday edition."

Talent recruitment and development is the #1 concern for Missouri manufacturers — but there are ways to address this through early awareness and career pathway development for students. Each year the Missouri Chamber Manufacturing Alliance, in partnership with Missouri Enterprise, and the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) leads Missouri's statewide MFG Day open door events and invites students to learn more about the amazing career potential that exists across the manufacturing industry. Last year nearly 10,000 students took part in our statewide virtual event.

This year we're meeting the challenges brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic once again by bringing today's modern manufacturing world right to students' classrooms and homes virtually on October 1. This full-day, live-streamed event will showcase dozens of manufacturers across the state while Zooming in students from around Missouri. Additionally, we will be working in partnership with our local chambers to provide technical support, guidance and student materials to manufacturers that host in-person events around the state. Additional resources can be found also at Creators Wanted, and where you can find in-person open door events.
