Business Articles

TIP: When to 'stop with the small talk.'

When you first meet someone, or reconnect with an acquaintance at a business networking event, do you find yourself stuck in 'small talk' mode? It seems weird to suddenly change gears from talking about the weather, sports, or summer vacation plans to business talk, but that is most likely WHY you are both at the networking event.

As a solution try slowly shifting the conversation in the direction of work and business. Perhaps ask "How many people at your office are still working remotely this summer?" Then follow up by asking about their business and if working from home is working for them.

Perhaps you do have to make a pivot from 'small talk' by directly asking about their work. If you know what they do, then make your question relevant to their work life. It could be supply chain issues people are facing. Or inflation or any number of more business-related topics. And always keep Shepa Learning Company's philosophy top of mind: while talking to that person can you discover what you can do for them?

TIP: Be open to anyone. Here's why...

It's always inspiring to read tangible examples of why all connections have value and why we shouldn't edit our friendships because they seem unlikely.

Devin Cleary Gooden in Networking Works: Here's How One Connection Changed My Entire Career tells the story of building a friendship with a work colleague who she otherwise wouldn't have "gravitated toward" and how later that person leveraged her connections when Devin was looking to change jobs. Gooden was new to work and "met this individual in the office one day when our desks were rearranged, and we found ourselves sitting close together. She was on a different team and from what I could tell, we didn't have much in common...she was older than me... and she already had a strong network of connections in the office with whom she regularly hung out with. I figured we'd be friendly to each other and go about our business-like regular coworkers, but we ended up connecting way beyond that.

When I ended up leaving the company...she leveraged her connections to get me a meeting with the hiring director, and a few years later, she randomly invited me into a top-secret Slack group for marketers in our city (who even knew those existed?!) which is where I found my current role that I love. That, and I ended up tripling my salary over the course of four years as I changed jobs which is something I can tie directly back to my colleague."

Western Missouri Medical Center Auxiliary Host Annual Ice Cream Social, Raising More Than $3,600

Warrensburg, MO (August 1, 2022)—On Sunday, July 31, the Western Missouri Medical Center (WMMC) Auxiliary hosted the 13th Annual Ice Cream Social and welcomed almost 300 attendees. Members of the Auxiliary, WMMC Board of Trustees, and staff volunteered to serve delicious treats to raise funds towards the purchase of an infant weight scale for Family Practice-Warrensburg, six i-Pads for e-signatures of patients for the Patient Access Department, and three H-Brace exam tables for Building Blocks Pediatrics at a total cost of $4,895.64. This year's Ice Cream Social, held in WMMC's Courtyard Café, raised more than $3,600 in gross revenue, with donations still coming in.

"We were pleased with the turnout for our 13th Annual Ice Cream Social," said Pat Higgins, Ice Cream Social co-chair along with Carol Dunham. "We are blessed to have such wonderful volunteers and generous community members. Thanks to the many Auxiliary members who provided delicious desserts and the help of over 30 volunteers who went above and beyond to set-up, serve, and clean-up we are able to purchase equipment for our hospital benefitting our greater community!"

Members of the Auxiliary baked a wide variety of tasty treats for the event, including pies, cobblers, cakes, cookies and brownies. Over 15 gallons of vanilla and chocolate ice cream were the main features—covered in the essential toppings of chocolate syrup, chopped nuts, whipped cream and cherries. Thanks to Warrensburg DQ Grill & Chill for graciously donating the strawberry topping. Donations are still being accepted and may be sent to the attention of the WMMC Auxiliary, 403 Burkard Road, Warrensburg, MO, 64093. For more information or to join the WMMC Auxiliary, please contact Teresa Collins, WMMC Volunteer Services Coordinator, at (660) 262-7466 or tacollins@wmmc.com.
